The Press of the State.

We have yet to see the first Democratic press that endorses or approves of the attack made by the Raleigh Standard upon Governor Ellis' message and the Democratic party generally. We have yet to see the first Opposition paper that does not rejoice over and republish these attacks, with the single exception of the Charlotte Whig, the temporary editor of which, (during the confinement of Mr. Holton, the editor, from the effects of a severe injury,) comes out in a manly article, endorsing the policy of resistance to the idea embodied in the election of Abraham Lincoln. The article states that such as been the amazing revolution in public opinion, that the writer feels confident that its sentiments will meet the approbation of nearly every reader of the Whig.

By the way, we notice that the Philadelphia Press, the organ of John W. Forney, the Clerk of the Republiceed to vote. lican House of Representatives, the persistent opponent and abuser of the President and administration, publishes a long article from the Standard of Saturday, the 24th ult., with great satisfaction. What are we to

We notice that Mr. John Spelman, having purchased the Democratic Press at Raleigh, has merged that paper into the State Journal, which will be published semiweekly and weekly. Price $4 a year for the semiweekly, and $2 a year for the weekly. We need not say that the "State Journal" will be a Democratic paper, nor add, what Mr. Spelman's energy and ability guarantee, that it will be an able and efficient one.

In retiring from the editorial profession, Mr. Whitaker takes leave of his friends, patrons and cotemporaries, returns thanks for the support he received and the confidence bestowed upon him, and asks for "a continuance and increase of the same" for the very worthy gentleman who succeeds him. Mr. Whitaker has our best wishes for his happiness and prosperity in any avocation in which he may engage.

We were very much surprised yesterday to see that our cotemporary of the Herald should have paraded a thing which that paper characterizes as deserving of silent contempt, as coming from a blackguard, etc., and yet, after so characterizing it, should have thought it sufficient authority upon which to base a bitter attack upon a whole State. This is surely giving altogether too much consequence to such a thing. The deductions of the Herald are not worthy of either the le- | Senate proceeded to vote. ing. He would not consider any such evidence admissible in a court of law. He would not believe it anywhere except against South Carolina, it would seem.

Now, what are the facts? The Editor of the Herald receives a pamphlet, postmarked, Charleston, S. C., accompanied by an abusive anonymous note. The Editor very properly characterizes the thing as he ought, if he characterized at all; perhaps the silent contempt to which he fitting reception to have given it. But having noticed it as the act and its words as the expressions of a "liar | Clerk. and coward," he most surely admits that it can be no evidence to prove anything-not sufficient to hang a on the part of the Senate. Mr. Ramsay nominated R. W dog upon; surely not sufficient to predicate a grave charge against a State, or influence opinion at a time like this. Does not our neighbor really attach altogether too much importance to a thing which, on the face of it, shows that it is simply worthy of being treated with silent contempt? We leave it to our neighbor himself.

Thanksgiving Day.

Yesterday being the day set apart in pursuance of law as a day of Tranksgiving and Prayer throughout the State, was observed here by a general cessation of business, and also by religious services in several of the Churches. The streets wore a quiet aspect, half of Christmas and half of Sunday. Towards the afternoon quiet but earnest groups of men might have been seen at sundry street corners discussing the all-absorbing topic of the day. We saw nothing out of keeping with the decorous observance of the occasion. Little or no dissipation and no loud words.

Some little excitement was created by a report from Charleston that in consequence of a large number of additional troops being on their way to Fort Moultrie, the military of that city were about to take immediate possession of that military post. At first the rumor was that they had taken possession of it.

This had its origin in a report current in Charleston on Wednesday, that the Steamship James Adger on her way from New York to Charleston had six hundred United States troops on board. A telegraph to the Charleston Courier sets this at rest. The Adger took no troops on board for Charleston or anywhere e'se .- Daily Journal, 30th ult.

Not Hung.

This forenoon, Sheriff Vann had all the arrangements made for the execution of Peter, a slave, sentenced to be hung on this day. Between ten and eleven o'clock, the military were out and all ready to carry the prisoner to the gallows, when, to the great relief of Peter, the proceedings were suspended. At the last moment, as it were, the owner of Peter had concluded to take an appeal and the State had permitted such to be taken, waiving or dispensing with the bond otherwise necessary. James A. Wright, Esq., Clerk of the Superior Court communicated this fact to the Sheriff, withdrawing the order for the execution to-day. Peter is remanded to prison pending the action of the Supreme Court on the appeal

Peter was so much affected as to be unable to speak. The Sheriff felt relieved for the present, at least, from the discharge of a duty, which, from its nature, must be painful: the crowd generally dispersed, some few, if we could judge from appearances, dissatisfied at losing a spectacle-an excitement :- others, having made up their minds that the prisoner ought to be hung without delay, deprecated what they regarded as a postponement of justice; but generally, the feeling was much pleasanter before than after the announcement—the military filed off home to cheerful music, and now things have settled down as quietly as if nothing had occurred to draw a crowd. If anything new and worthy of consideration can be brought forward for Peter, let it be, no matter what his status may be—if not, his execution is simply

What a lesson might not be derived from this circumstance! We are all oblivious of the blessings that surround us. We grumble, and, no doubt, yesterday, many questioned if they had anything for which to be thankful. To the prisoner, no matter what his color, who is brought to feel that his last hour has come, it is joy even to be allowed to live-to breathe the air, though it be the air of a prison. That was all Peter got this morning. Who can say how deep was the sigh of relief that he drew .- Ib.

The Legislature.

We have seen some members of both houses and of both parties, this week. From what we could learn or hear, we came to the conclusion that the better opinion leans to the belief that a Convention will be called to consult and act upon the question of Federal Relations. Such is the present appearance of things. No definite understanding seems to have been come to as to what conrse the Convention is likely to adopt.

The Wilmington Light Infantry were out for parade and drill on Wednesday afternoon. They looked very well. Our volunteer soldiery ought to be fostered in every proper way.
